

I switched to satellite radio because of the shock jocks. Now they want to force me to hear their station. There is no reason why they should get their own way. Let the competition find ways to keep their listeners and not by the government. I have heard a local station talking about tampons at 8pm at night. YES! 8pm with a 10 year old in the car. Do you talk to your son at 10 years old about what tampons are for? It was not even a commercial.
